|---|---|---|
| 1 | Persona 1 Summary | Aarav Sharma (20, B.Tech CSE, Hosteller in BH-4). Lost Casio fx-991EX calculator before Mid-Terms; suffered anxiety, walked 3 blocks in heat, faced fake claimants on social media. |
| 2 | Persona 2 Summary | Priya Patel (21, B.Tech Biotech, Day Scholar commuter). Found set of bike keys; had lecture in 5 minutes; had no safe quick place to drop them. |
| 3 | As-Is Journey Map Emotional Dip | Deepest emotional low (-5) occurs at Stage 3 & 4 when students broadcast contact numbers on public social media and experience harassment, followed by security's inability to verify items. |
| 4 | Point of View (POV) Statement | University students carrying essential academic belongings across a 600-acre campus need an authenticated, privacy-preserving recovery channel without exposing their personal phone numbers because informal social media groups invite fraudulent claims, spam harassment, and permanent property loss. |
| 5 | Main How-Might-We (HMW) | How might we make returning a found item the effortless, natural choice on campus while ensuring only the verified rightful owner can claim it through trusted campus security? |
| 6 | Sub-HMW Questions | 1. How might we verify genuine ownership instantly without exposing phone numbers? 2. How might we make reporting take under 60 seconds for hurried finders? 3. How might we empower campus security guards to verify items in regional Indian languages? |
